

Mentorship Program

The spARO Mentorship Program supports a diverse community of trainees (including undergrads, graduate students, medical students, audiology students, post-baccs, post-docs, clinical fellows, and early-career faculty) by connecting them with established investigators, clinicians, and industry scientists in the field of otolaryngology research. The program fosters professional development, scientific collaboration, and career guidance through structured mentor-mentee relationships. Mentors and mentees can be matched based on shared research interests, career goals, and backgrounds. Over the past several years, the program has successfully matched over 100 mentors and mentees.

Be sure to indicate during your MidWinter Meeting Registration your interest in becoming a mentor or mentee!
